Receiving The Wingman Foundation scholarship is more than a financial award for me. It's a powerful affirmation of my journey and aspirations. I'm so grateful to have been selected again this year. The financial relief has been a tremendous help as I continue my studies in photography and graphic design at SNHU.

As a military spouse, I've often placed my own goals on hold in support of my husband's service in the Marine Corps and the needs of our family. Frequent moves, long separations, and the unpredictability of military life made it difficult to prioritize my own education.

This scholarship changes that. It represents opportunity, encouragement, and belief in my potential. With The Wingman Foundation's continued support, I'm now able to stay on track toward building skills that will allow me to give back to my community in meaningful ways. I am deeply thankful for this investment in my future and hope to one day pay it forward, just as the Wingman Foundation has done for me.
